

DREXEL UNIVERSITY LEBOW COLLEGE OF BUSINESS GRADUATE PROGRAMS

MASTER'S ^{IN} ECONOMICS AND DATA SCIENCE

DEMOGRAPHICS

RANGE OF INCOMING STUDENT WORK EXPERIENCE:

2 to 10 years

Source: Incoming Graduate Student Survey, 2021

CAREER STATS

INDUSTRIES:

Analysis | Banking | Consulting
Finance | Government

MEDIAN SALARIES:

Data scientist: $108,020

Economist: $115,730

Market research analyst: $74,680

Source: U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics

CONTACT US

lebowgradenroll@drexel.edu

215.895.2115

Drexel University's STEM-designated Master of Science in Economics and Data Science, offered jointly by the AACSB-accredited LeBow College of Business and the College of Computing & Informatics, is the first degree of its kind in the Philadelphia region. The interdisciplinary program combines business, economics and data science at the graduate level to equip you with sought-after skills in an emerging field, so you're ready to excel in industry or academia.

DEGREE HIGHLIGHTS

Located in bustling downtown Philadelphia, Drexel's MS in Economics and Data Science is available in both full-time and part-time options to fit your schedule. Complete your degree in 18 to 36 months and gain hands-on experience through consulting courses, internships and more, preparing you to lead with experience in your career.

CONCEPTS AND SKILLS

Some of the concepts and skills you'll learn about or develop through our MS in Economics and Data Science include:

- ECONOMIC ANALYSIS
- APPLIED CLOUD COMPUTING
- CAUSAL INFERENCE
- DATA SCIENCE
- ECONOMETRICS
- MACHINE LEARNING

CUSTOMIZATION OPTIONS

FREE ELECTIVES

Customize your studies with free elective options in disciplines such as:

- Business analytics
- Strategic financial management
- Machine learning for data science

CAREER OUTCOMES

Upon graduation, some job titles you could be eligible for include:

- ANALYST
- DATA ENGINEER
- DATA SCIENTIST
- ECONOMIST
- MARKET ANALYST
- POLICY ANALYST

CAREER SUPPORT

While earning your degree, after graduation or even years later, the LeBow Graduate Career Services team offers personalized career coaching and more.